

Royal Wulff by David Chin page 1

Royal Wulff- tying Size 12
Hook: Dry fly hook
Thread: Black 8/0
Wings: White Calf Body
Tails: Black Moose
Body: Peacock and Red Floss
Hackle: Brown.

Laying the thread base. 1.2

Start the thread from behind the eye to mid point of the hook. Then come back towards the eye, stopping at mid point of the thread base. This is the tie in point for the wings.

1.3

Cut a generous amount of calf's body hair. Clean out the short base hairs by brushing and pulling them off. Then even the tips in a hair stacker. Measure the hair on the hook shank. One length of the hook shank.

Tying on the wings. 1.4

Move the hairs to the tie in point, yellow arrow in photo 1.3. Make a soft wrap around the hairs, then 2nd wrap on the hook shank at the tie in point. This will help the hairs staying on top of the shank and not roll to the sides with the subsequent wraps.

Royal Wulff by David Chin page 2

Raising the wings. 2.1 Pick up the hairs to a vertical position and start the thread wrap in front of the hairs to the eye. Then wrap back to the hairs and make tight wraps against the hair. Build up thread so that the hairs come to a vertical stand.

Separating the wings. 2.2 Split the wings in to 2 halves. Cross wrap the wings with X wraps to split them apart.

Wing Posts. 2.3 Wrap individual post to Create solid wing posts.

Wing Posts. 2.4

Royal Wulff by David Chin page 3

← Trimming the hairs butt ends. 3.1
Trim the hairs for a taper wrap.

→ Abdomen thread base. 3.2
Wrap with thread to the bend of the hook. Try to achieve a tapered wrap from the Thorax to the tail tie in. A small thread bump should be helpful to help raise the tails.

↑ Positioning tails. 1 Hook Length. 3.3

← 3.4 Tails tie in.

↓ 3.5 Tails tied in.

Royal Wulff by David Chin page 4

← Tying in Herl for the butt. 4.1

Select 2 strands of peacock herl. Tie in behind the Thorax and wrap towards the tails.

→ Preparing the Herl rope. 4.2

To strengthen the herls, so that they will not break off with the first fish, we will twist it with a thread loop. Make a loop with the thread then advance the thread to behind the thorax.

← The herl rope. 4.3 Catch the herls and the thread with a clip and twist to a dense rope.

← The body butt. 4.4

Make 3 to 4 wraps with Herl rope. Then bind it down with thread. Continue wrapping the Herls with thread to behind the thorax. Do not cut the herl rope.

Royal Wulff by David Chin page 5

← The Red Body. 5.1 Cut a short piece of red floss. Use only 4 strands. Tie in behind thorax then wrap with thread to the herl butt, then advance thread to behind the thorax.

→ Wrapping the body. 5.2
Wrap the red floss towards the Thorax. About 5 wraps. Leave room for the Shoulder. Tie off with thread and trim the red floss.

← The shoulder wrap. 5.3 Finish wrapping with the herls. Leave room behind the wings for hackles. Trim the herl.

→ The Hackles: 5.4
Select 2 brown dry fly hackles. Shiny sides back to back and tie in between the wing posts.

Royal Wulff by David Chin page 6

Wrapping the first hackle. 6.1

Wrap the first hackle. 3 wraps behind the wings and 2 in front. Catch it with the thread. Tie down with a half hitch.

2nd Hackle, 6.2

Wrap the second hackle like the first one.

Finishing the head. 6.3

Pull all the feathers behind the eye with the off hand fingers out of the way towards the back. Build a neat head and whip finish. Apply cement.

Royal Wulff by David Chin page 7

